

Cites for statistics on cover:

*David Finkelhor. "Current Information on the Scope and Nature of Child Abuse." The Future of Children: Sexual Abuse of Children, 1994, Volume 4, page 37.

**K.J. Ruggiero and D.G. Kilpatrick (unpublished data). Reporting rape to the authorities: Findings from the National Women's Study (Kilpatrick, et al., 1992) and National Violence Against Women's Survey (Tjaden & Thoennes, 2000). Medical University of South Carolina, National Crime Victims Research and Treatment Center.

The Office of the Attorney General is committed to abide by the principles of the Americans with Disabilities Act and the Kentucky Civil Rights Act. The office shall insure equal participation and treatment in all services, programs, and employment opportunities offered by the agency. A reasonable accommodation shall be made to all persons with disabilities regarding programs, services and employment practices of the agency. Additionally, the office shall not retaliate against any person with a disability who is exercising the rights and privileges guaranteed by the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Printed with state funds.

You can help stop child sexual abuse!

Know the indicators and report!

Are you aware that "1 in 5 girls and 1 in 10 boys are sexually exploited before they reach adulthood,"* yet "less than 35% of those child sexual assaults are reported to authorities."**

Child Victims' Trust Fund

* ** Statistical cites located on back of brochure

Indicators of Child Sexual Abuse*

Physical Indicators of Child Sexual Abuse

- Gastrointestinal disturbance
- Difficulty sitting or walking
- Torn, stained or bloody clothing or underwear
- Pain or itching in genital area
- Unexplained bruises, lacerations, swelling, redness or bleeding in genital, anal or vaginal area
- Complaints of genital or rectal pain
- Psychosomatic complaints, such as stomachaches, headaches
- Vomiting or gagging
- Sexually transmitted disease (especially in preteens)
- Pain experienced in elimination
- Pregnancy

Behavioral Indicators of Child Sexual Abuse

- Withdrawing from social settings or rejecting affection from family members
- Sexual acting out
- Sudden knowledge of sexual terms or names of body parts
- Hyperactive or anxious behavior
- Change or loss of appetite
- Sleeping problems: insomnia, nightmares, refusal to sleep alone, etc.
- Regressive behaviors: thumb-sucking, bed-wetting, infantile behaviors
- Fearfulness or excessive clinginess
- Loss of friends
- Change in personal hygiene or sudden shift in personality
- Suicidal feelings or behaviors
- Problems in school
- Runaway from home

Under Kentucky state law ANYONE who suspects or has reason to believe a child is being abused or neglected MUST report this information to the Cabinet for Health and Family Services, local law enforcement, the Kentucky State Police or the local Commonwealth's Attorney or County Attorney (KRS 620.030). This law states that physicians, nurses, teachers, social workers, school personnel, medical personnel, emergency medical technicians and paramedics are among those professionals statutorily required to report suspected abuse or neglect. Failure to report suspected child abuse, including sexual abuse or neglect, may result in criminal charges being filed (KRS 620.990).

Since it was established in 1984, the Child Victims' Trust Fund \(CVTF\) has provided prevention education to thousands of children, parents, teachers, professionals interacting with abuse victims and the public in general. Additionally, the CVTF provides reimbursements for the portion of child sexual abuse medical exam expenses not covered by private insurance or Medicaid.

You can contribute by making a donation in any of the following ways:

-  Making a donation through the state income tax refund check-off
- Purchasing an "I CARE ABOUT KIDS" license plate
- Making a private donation

For more information, call (502) 696-5312
or visit <http://ag.ky.gov/victims/>

*Indicators from Promise Not to Tell: A Teacher's Guide to Recognizing and Responding to Child Sexual Abuse (Funding provided by the CVTF, 2003).